Preferred Office Network's 620+ business center locations contain an optimal mix of urban and suburban markets. Many of our members have not only invested in high-demand markets, but have also taken risks to meet the demands of smaller, outlying communities. Their investments are paying off. A recent article featuring one of Preferred's members, Office Evolution, highlights this strategy in action.

Admitting that suburbs have traditionally been ignored, their goal is to provide options in areas where entrepreneurs or small teams can find amenity-rich space without signing a long-term lease. The need for this type of space extends beyond urban markets and is a growing need in suburban areas where many companies do business.

The first map above shows a broad overview of the major markets Preferred Office Network business centers are located. The second map shows a zoomed in view of the Washington, D.C. metro-area and displays both centers located directly in the city and the surrounding suburbs.

Using our search tool, you can type in the zip code of your choice and select a mileage radius to find available business centers in both urban and suburban markets. We continue to add locations monthly and expand our national reach making it easier than ever for clients to find business centers in our network.
